USTR Announces Procedures for Modifying Measures in EC Beef and Bananas Cases

The Office of the United States Trade Representative today announced procedures for modifying the lists of European products subject to increased tariffs as a result of the European Communities' (EC) failure to comply with dispute settlement rulings in the World Trade Organization (WTO) Beef and Bananas cases. USTR is seeking comment with respect to whether products currently on the retaliation lists should remain subject to increased duties, and whether products on broader lists attached to this release should be newly subject to increased duties. USTR is also seeking comment with respect to whether the 100 percent rate of duty currently applied is high enough to have the intended effect of being prohibitive. USTR is particularly interested in comments addressed to the effects on U.S. small- or medium-size businesses of imposing higher duties on particular products.

Modifications to the product lists are mandated by Section 407 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000, which entered into force on May 18, 2000. The provision was motivated by the United States' growing sense of frustration with the EU's failure to honor its WTO obligations in the Beef and Bananas cases. WTO arbitrators have found that the EC's discriminatory banana import regime is harming U.S. economic interests in the amount of $191.4 million per year, and that the EC's unfounded ban on U.S. beef is harming U.S. economic interests in the amount of $116.8 million per year. The intent of Section 407 is to induce compliance with the results of WTO dispute settlement proceedings, while maintaining the level of retaliation within the level authorized by the WTO.

After considering all public comments, an interagency committee will provide recommendations to the USTR. Consistent with Congressional expectations, the Administration's goal is to announce modifications by June 19, 2000, the first business day that is 30 days after Section 407 entered into force.

Information on Submitting Comments

Complete information on the submission of comments is set forth in a USTR Federal Register notice. The notice is posted today on the USTR web site (WWW.USTR.GOV). The notice is available today for public inspection at the Office of the Federal Register and will be published in the May 31, 2000 edition of the Federal Register.

All products on the attached lists were included on preliminary lists with respect to which USTR has previously sought public comment. All comments previously received with respect to particular products, as well as comments received in response to this announcement, will be considered. Accordingly, persons who have previously submitted comments with respect to particular products are requested not to resubmit such comments, although updates to previously submitted comments are welcome.

To be assured of consideration, comments should be submitted by 5:00 p.m. on June 14, 2000, and should be addressed to: Chairman, Section 301 Committee, Attn: Implementation of WTO Recommendations, Room 100, 600 17th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20508.

Comments are requested with respect to the products from designated EC member States listed in the four Annexes to this announcement:

Annex I is the list of products currently subject to 100 percent duties as a result of the EC's noncompliance in the Bananas case. This list was drawn from the broader list contained in Annex II.

Annex II is the list of products that the United States submitted to the WTO in January, 1999 in the EC-Bananas case, and all products on the list have been included in prior notices requesting public comment. All products on this list not currently subject to 100 percent duties are under consideration for the new imposition of increased duties of 100 percent or more as a result of the EC's noncompliance in the EC-Bananas case.

Annex III is the list of products currently subject to 100 percent duties as a result of the EC's noncompliance in the EC-Beef Hormones case. This list was drawn from the broader list contained in Annex IV.

Annex IV is the list of products that the United States submitted to the WTO in May 1999 in the EC-Beef Hormones case, and all products on the list have been included in prior notices requesting public comment. All products on this list not currently subject to 100 percent duties are under consideration for the new imposition of increased duties of 100 percent or more as a result of the EC's noncompliance in the EC-Beef Hormones case.

Comments are requested both with regard to whether maintaining or imposing increased duties on particular products would be practicable or effective in terms of encouraging the EC to comply with its WTO obligations in the Beef and Bananas cases, and the effects of increased duties on U.S. economic interests. The USTR is particularly interested in potential impacts on U.S. small- or medium-size businesses, so it can seek to avoid adversely affecting them.

BACKGROUND

Section 407 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000

Section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974 authorizes the USTR to take responsive action when another WTO Member fails to implement WTO Dispute Settlement Body (DSB) recommendations in a dispute settlement proceeding. In both the Beef and Bananas cases, the USTR used that authority to increase tariffs on goods imported from EC countries, as authorized by the DSB. Section 407 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000, enacted on May 18, 2000, amended Section 301 by requiring the USTR to review such actions taken under Section 301 and to revise them, in whole or in part, 120 days after their initial effective date, and every 180 days thereafter.

Section 407 provides exceptions in the event that (1) the USTR and the Section 301 petitioner (or, if USTR self-initiated the Section 301 investigation, the affected U.S. industry) agree that changing the action under Section 301 is unnecessary, or (2) resolution of the case is imminent. At this time, neither of these exceptions appears to apply in the Beef or Bananas cases.

Section 407 provides that the standard for making changes is to select changes that are most likely to result in implementation of the DSB recommendations, or in achieving some other satisfactory resolution of the dispute. The conference report accompanying the legislation confirms that Congress intends for the USTR, in accordance with WTO dispute settlement rules, to ensure that the level of retaliation remains within the level authorized by the WTO DSB. It also states that the conferees expect initial action within 30 days after entry into force.

The provision also requires that retaliation lists -- both initially and after each of the periodic changes -- include reciprocal goods of the U.S. industries affected by a WTO Member's noncompliance. This reciprocity requirement is applicable to the retaliatory action in the Beef case. However, Section 407 includes an exception that makes the reciprocity requirement inapplicable to the retaliatory action in the Bananas case.

Bananas Case

The United States, along with Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Mexico, successfully challenged the EC banana regime under WTO dispute settlement procedures. The regime was designed, among other things, to take away a major part of the banana distribution business of U.S. companies. On May 22, 1997, a WTO panel found that the EC banana regime violated WTO rules; the Appellate Body upheld the panel's decision on September 9, 1997. At the request of the complaining parties, the compliance period was set by arbitration and expired on January 1, 1999. However, on January 1, 1999, the EC adopted a regime that perpetuates the WTO violations identified by the panel and the Appellate Body. The United States sought WTO authorization to suspend concessions (i.e., retaliate) with respect to certain products from the EC, the value of which is equivalent to the nullification or impairment sustained by the United States. The EC exercised its right to request arbitration concerning the amount of the suspension and on April 6, 1999, the arbitrators determined the level of suspension to be $191.4 million. On April 19, 1999, the DSB authorized the United States to suspend such concessions, and the United States proceeded to impose 100 percent ad valorem duties on a list of EC products with an annual trade value of $191.4 million. Discussions with the EC to resolve this matter are continuing.

Beef Case

The United States and Canada successfully challenged the EC ban on imports of meat from animals to which any of six hormones for growth promotional purposes had been administered. The WTO panel found that the EC ban is inconsistent with the EC's obligations under the WTO Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (the "SPS Agreement") and that the ban is not based on science, a risk assessment, or relevant international standards. Upon appeal, the Appellate Body affirmed the panel's findings that the EC ban fails to satisfy the requirements of the SPS Agreement. The Appellate Body also found that while a country has broad discretion in electing what level of protection it wishes to implement, in doing so it must fulfill the requirements of the SPS Agreement. In this case the ban imposed is not rationally related to the conclusions of the risk assessments the EC had performed. The EC's ban ignored a vast body of scientific evidence – including evidence produced by the EC's own reviews – that it is safe to consume meat from animals to which these drugs have been administered in accordance with good animal husbandry practice. Because the EC did not comply with the rulings and recommendations of the DSB by May 13, 1999 (the final date of its compliance period as set by arbitration), the United States sought WTO authorization to suspend concessions (i.e., retaliate) with respect to certain products of the EC, the value of which represents an estimate of the annual harm to U.S. exports resulting from the EC's failure to lift its ban on imports of U.S. meat. The EC exercised its right to request arbitration concerning the amount of the suspension. On July 12, 1999, the arbitrators determined the level of suspension to be $116.8 million. On July 26, 1999, the DSB authorized the United States to suspend such concessions, and the United States proceeded to impose 100 percent ad valorem duties on a list of EC products with an annual trade value of $116.8 million. Discussions with the EC to resolve this matter are continuing.

ANNEX I

EC-Bananas* - List of Products Currently Subject to Increased Duties

The products listed below are currently subject to 100 percent ad valorem duties as a result of the EC's noncompliance in the EC-Bananas case. Each of the products listed below is under consideration for continued inclusion on a revised retaliation list, and for the imposition of duties above the current 100 percent ad valorem rate. In particular, increased tariffs may continue to be applied to, or may be raised with respect to, articles that are (i) classified in the numerical subheadings of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTS) listed below and (ii) products of one or more of the indicated member States of the European Communities. In all cases, the tariff nomenclatures in the HTS for the subheadings listed below are definitive; the product descriptions in this list are for information purposes only. The descriptions below are not intended to delimit in any way the scope of the products subject to increased duties.

Products of Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, the Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, or the United Kingdom:

HTS No.	Product Description
33073050	Bath preparations, other than bath salts
42022215	Handbags, with or without shoulder straps or without handle, with outer surface of sheeting of plastics
42023210	Articles of a kind normally carried in the pocket or handbag, with outer surface of reinforced or laminated plastics
48055000	Uncoated felt paper and paperboard in rolls or sheets
48192000	Folding cartons, boxes and cases of noncorrugated paper or paperboard
49119120	Lithographs on paper or paperboard, not over 0.51 mm in thickness, printed not over 20 years at time of importation
63022190	Bed linen, not knit or crochet, printed, of cotton, not containing any embroidery, lace, braid, edging, trimming, piping or applique work, not napped
85072080	Lead-acid storage batteries other than of a kind used for starting piston engines or as the primary source of power for certain electric vehicles principally designed for the transport of up to nine persons

Products of Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, the Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, Ireland, Luxembourg, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, or the United Kingdom (same as above country list, except Italy):

85167100	Electrothermic coffee or tea makers, for domestic purposes
